Censorship Relaxed, Soviets Tell U. S. Senators

Group Visits With Bulganin And Krushchev

Subject Brought Up During Chat By Sen. Kefauver

MOSCOW (UP) — Smiling Russian leaders told five visiting U. S. senators today that the Soviet Union had made a start on relaxing censorship.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he brought up the subject of censorship during a two-hour chat in the Kremlin with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

The other senators present were J. Allen Frear (D-Ind.), George W. Malone (R-Nev.), Henry C. Dworshak (R-Iowa) and Milton R. Young (R-N.D.). Mrs. Malone also was present at the meeting.

Kefauver said he "pointed out that there were many U. S. press, radio and television men in Moscow, and that some of them had difficulties."

He said Khrushchev, who did most of the talking for himself and Bulganin, replied that the Soviets had been working on relaxation of censorship, "but you realize everything can't be done overnight."

Kefauver added that the party chief said the Russian government "was hoping for good results from the October foreign ministers' conference, and that censorship would be discussed there, and that meanwhile they were making progress."

Khrushchev smiled broadly as he made the statement.

Kefauver quoted Khrushchev and Bulganin as saying "they were going to progressively revoke censorship." But Dworshak apparently understood the remarks differently. "I did not get any impression that they plan to remove censorship entirely," Dworshak said.

Other topics cropped up in the informal conversation. Young asked whether it would be possible to sell American farm surpluses to Russia. He said Khrushchev replied, "It is not only possible but desirable." Young said the party chief told him there never had been any food crisis in Russia as Americans believed.

Dworshak said Khrushchev spoke of mutual trading in "certain raw materials and machines."

New Miss America, from Colorado, Plans to Continue Study of Drama

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — The new Miss America, a lovely auburn haired 18-year-old from Colorado, says she cooks nice fudge cake and would like to continue the study of drama. And after she gets through the coming strenuous year, that is exactly what she has in mind.

The new beauty queen, Sharon Kay Ritchie, already has a $5,000 scholarship and $7,500 in cash plus the promise of a car and many more prizes.

Sharon is devoutly religious. She said a soft prayer on Saturday night of the finals—that God would be on her side. The prayer was answered.

Sister A Beauty Queen

Beauty prizes are nothing new to her family. Her sister, Mrs. Merle Strever of Denver, was a runner-up in the Miss Universe contest this year.

Sharon is an All-American girl. She has poise and she has a sense of humor.

At her first press conference, the photographers were wearing her out. Sharon had been up all night at the Queen's Ball. Well, one lensman started to shoot and his second gun took a bad turn.

Sharon looked the photog square in the eye and said: "I'm so homesick, I broke that poor guy's camera."

Sharon of course was just kidding.

Raised In Nebraska

The young lady from Denver, who was born and raised in Nebraska, has what the sponsors to the Miss America pageant ordered. She is five feet 6 inches tall, and weighs 116 pounds. Her bust is 35, and she has hip measurements to match. She is 23 around the waist. She wears a size 7½ shoe, and the size of the dress is 10. The glove size is 6 and the color of the eyes is blue.

Miss Oregon, Dorothy Johnson, took second place in the beauty parade and Miss Chicago, Florence Gallagher, was third. Clara Faye Arnold, Miss North Carolina, was fourth and Ann Campbell, Miss Oklahoma, was fifth.

The other five finalists were Miss Alabama, Patricia Huddleston; Miss Arizona, Beth Andre; Miss Florida, Sandra Wirth; Miss Hawaii, Barbara Mamo Vieira; and Miss Massachusetts, Virginia Maffucci.

CAIRO (UP) — A heavy earthquake rocked the Nile River delta from Cairo to Alexandria today and four schools were reported to have collapsed here.

The Ministry of the Interior announced that 10 persons, including 9 schoolgirls, were killed in Cairo, 5 in Damanhour and 3 in Tanta. Eleven persons were reported injured in Tanta, 6 in Damanhour and 8 in the province of Menoufia. A communiqué said 65 were injured in Cairo, where the school girls were killed when their kindergarten in the Daher area was damaged by the quake.

The government information office said the Daher school opened its academic year this morning and became a scene of panic when the quake struck. Walls of the 50-year-old building began to shake and the girls stampeded in terror from their classrooms.

Trying to reach safety, the children jammed onto the stairway and broke the railing. Many of them plunged to the floor below.

Postpone Building Additions to City Water Filtration Plant

Plans Abandoned Temporarily Due To Lack of Funds

Lack of funds has caused postponement in building additions to the city water filtration plant. Proposals to install additional filters and make other improvements boosting the city water output to about 1,600,000 gallons per day instead of the present 1,000,000 gallons had reached the engineering stage last week, but have been abandoned temporarily.

The proposed improvements were scheduled as a part of the bond issue under which Lake Harrisburg was built. However, the lake cost more than was anticipated, and the general operating fund of the water department was depleted by the extra expense of furnishing water on an emergency basis during the summer of 1954, according to Don Williams, commissioner of finance.

No Reserve for Filter But reductions in the expenses contingent with the emergency in 1954 plus the removal of water restrictions put on due to the shortage a year ago is being reflected in an improved cash situation; however there is no reserve for the filter plant construction. The emergency of a year ago cost more than $22,000 extra.

The report of auditors for the city, as of May 1, showed receipts of $211,912.20 from the Lake Harrisburg bond issue, and sale of material totaling $385.00, for a total construction income of $212,297.20. Land for the lake cost $80,102.25, construction cost $95,930.40 and engineering and legal fees cost $12,789.72, for a total of $188,822.37, leaving a balance of $23,474.83 for the filter plant additions.

Due to increased emergency operations, it was required that $4,365.89 of the construction fund be used for bond interest, with the result that the audit showed only $19,058.94 left for the filter plant addition, estimated to cost more than $50,000.

The result of the emergency operation of 1954 is reflected in the income and expense statement for the year ending 1955 and the previous year. For the fiscal year ending April 30, 1954, the water department had a net income of $40,615.87 from operating income of $112,913.50.

For the fiscal year ending April 30, 1955, which included the period of the severe water shortage and emergency supply efforts of the summer of 1954, the department had a net income of only $12,910.68 from an operating income of $109,884.28.

This is a difference in net operating income of $27,695.19. This is partly accounted for by the fact that $4,754.16 was paid for water royalty, the power and light for extra pumping increased $8,344.64, extra pipe and materials cost $4,439.41, labor increased $4,705.30, and other items increased material.

A survey of the situation indicates that the water department, as of April 30, was actually "in the red." Bond interest is charged as an operating expense, but bond principal retirement comes out of operating profit, and bond retirements were $27,600 last year against $23,500 for the previous year.

As of April 30, the cash balance was $1,454.97 in the red as against a cash balance of $3,855.61 at the beginning of the year.

Police Auto Catches Fire, Badly Damaged

J. E. Gore, 30, Hurt; Two Others Removed from Car

A car that was being tested for its "takeoff" early today took off the highway, was wrecked and burned, and its driver sent to the hospital seriously injured.

And the Eldorado city police car, which rushed to the scene, caught fire and was badly damaged, but police removed all three occupants from the wrecked auto before the gasoline exploded.

The incident occurred on Route 45 just east of Eldorado, about 12:05 a. m.

In Ferrell hospital seriously injured is the driver, J. E. Gore, 30, of Eldorado. One occupant of the auto, Neal Willis, 32, suffered some abrasions, and another, Jack Cox, Eldorado youth, was not hurt.

Cox told state policemen that earlier Gore had wanted to race him but that he refused. Then, he said, he got in the car with Gore and Willis to take Gore's car out onto the highway to "test its take-off."

Driver Loses Control

Cox said the car was speeding southward on Route 45 and that he begged Gore to slow down. The car started to go around a truck, Cox said, and added that for some reason unknown to him that Gore turned off his lights as he got ready to pass.

The car started skidding sideways as Gore started around the truck and Gore lost control, he said, the car leaving the road, hitting a culvert and overturning.

Two Eldorado policemen, Donald Hopkins and Ed Whitsell, were drinking coffee in Sparky's One-Stop only a short distance away when the crash occurred and the police car was rushed to the scene where all three boys were pinned in the car.

The policemen got them all out just before the gasoline tank of the Gore car caught fire, and gasoline was sprayed over the police car nearby. The Gore machine was destroyed and the rear part of the police car was burned, including the rear wheels, trunk and the upholstery in the rear part.

Lost Art: Budgeting

Editorial By Bruce Bissat
Time was when you couldn't fairly say you were in business as a family man if you didn't operate by a budget. But it seems those days are gone with the chill wind of depression.

Nowadays most American families are basically just too well off to bother with the chafing restrictions of the budget strait jacket. They don't exactly trust to luck to make ends meet. They keep what is perhaps best called a loose check on expenses.

Surveying this trend, Time magazine reports that in 1955 only one family in 200 maintains a day-to-day operating budget, with its income deliberately segregated in various envelopes labeled Rent, Food, etc.

For one thing, they don't have to rely on such a device to keep some sort of orderly tab on their outlays. The changing habits of the U. S. seller of goods have come to serve as a partial substitute.

If you're buying a car, a TV set, household appliances or furniture on an installment plan, the seller provides you with a neat little payment booklet which serves as an adequate record of your monthly spending for those items.

You don't have to set aside funds in a special pile for taxes, social security, health insurance plans, and so on. Unless you're well up in the income brackets, your employer deducts taxes from your pay check. Social security is automatically deducted, and he'll take a slice for health insurance, too, if you say so.

The bank gets into the act with things like Christmas Club savings, where you plunk down a sum regularly each week to make the holiday burdens seem a little more bearable.

And lately, retailers of records have been joining the book merchants to help put your cultural purchases on a kind of installment plan, i.e., record-of-the-month clubs.

Put all these easily tabulated outlays together, keep a close eye on your charge accounts and your check stubs, and you've got a reasonably adequate picture of where the money is going.

Time found that newbies are the chief exception to the new order. Often they rely on a budget because they have to skimp and scrape. But soon they, too, discover the magic of credit.

Probably this whole trend is an inevitable accompaniment of our present prosperity. So there's no use bemoaning it. There's nothing wrong with the new order of things, anyway, provided that both buyers and sellers exercise sensible caution.

Americans have got to show sufficient self-restraint to avoid over-extending themselves financially. And where they won't show it, the businessman himself ought to act as their budget officer. For the economy could get into serious trouble if SOMEBODY doesn't make it clear that the magic of credit is not limitless.

U. I. Changes Farm, Home Bureau Support

CHAMPAIGN (UPI)—The University of Illinois College of Agriculture has put its plan to "modify" the financial support of county farm and home agents by the Farm Bureau into action.

College Dean Louis B. Howard said he is confident the Farm Bureau county Farm and Home Bureau will "sign the revised memorandum of understanding with the extension service."

The new memorandum of understanding resulted from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's 1954 order for divorce of the farm agent extension program from private farm organizations. However, Illinois agriculture officials estimated the state would have to spend about a million dollars a year to replace the county farm and home bureau support of the agents.

The new memorandum of understanding asks the county bureaus to sign agreements to make their financial support payments to a university fund rather than directly to the county agents.

Benson issued his directive after other farm organizations charged the Farm Bureau could spread its policies through use of the agents.

Howard said the new plan for the central fund "has been approved by Administrator C. M. Ferguson of the Federal Extension Service." He said the plan was devised by the extension advisory committee of 10 farmers and 5 homemakers.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

TOM MCNAMARA Says: John L. Lewis Borrowed "Rope of Sand" Phrase From Sam Gompers; Mine Leader May Use AFL-CIO Merger As Springboard For New Labor Movement; Small Unions May Flock To His Banner.

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation his column is being written by members of his staff.)

WASHINGTON. — John L. Lewis borrowed a phrase from the past when he castigated the merger of the AFL and CIO as "a rope of sand." However, the United Mine Workers' boss had his bushy eyebrows raddled on the future — a future in which John L. Lewis hopes to lead another labor movement.

Many years ago labor's beloved Sam Gompers, warning against big-union tramping of the rights of small unions in the American Federation of Labor declared: "If you destroy the voluntarism of small unions you are building a federation no stronger than a rope of sand."

"Voluntarism" was a word Gompers liked. He used it often to stress the need for protecting the jurisdiction and autonomy of little craft unions.

There is reason to believe that John L. Lewis is trying to emulate Gompers, founder of the AFL, in more than words. For a long time the miners' boss has cherished the idea of founding a new labor movement. The plight of the small unions in the AFL-CIO merger may be just the springboard he needs.

There is also reason to believe that the Republican National committee is taking more than a passing interest in Lewis' plans. Lewis, who backed Willie in 1940, has discussed the possibility of another union group in recent meetings with a number of labor leaders. One of those with whom he has met is Guy Brown, a strong Republican and chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Aside from politics, AFL-CIO union is bound to play into Lewis' hands. In the combining of rival unions of the two groups, some jurisdictional toes will be stepped upon, or, to be more exact, some CIO unions will be gobbled up by AFL counterparts and vice versa.

It is safe to assume that the big unions will do the stepping and the smaller ones will fill the "upon" role. In fact, the merger constitution leaves no area of doubt. The constitution, already drafted except for some minor changes to be made in December, gives the new AFL-CIO executive council arbitrary powers to establish the sovereignty of merged unions.

The executive council, to be composed of 29 members—19 from the AFL and 10 from the CIO—will be heavily dominated by "big union" leaders.

In fairness to the drafters of the constitution it can be argued that some unions must be sacrificed and that numerical strength is the fairest yardstick of supremacy. Otherwise, there would be no point in a merger if rival AFL and CIO units continued to compete against each other for jurisdiction and membership in the new setup.

Nonetheless, blowups are certain to develop, though the top bosses of both the AFL and CIO are taking extreme pains to prevent firestorms, such as walkouts by rebellious unions, at the unity convention in December in New York City.

WALKOUTS LIKELY

Both sides have urged recalcitrants not to "act up" in New York, but to save their walkout histrionics until later if they are not satisfied with their lot in the new setup—or, as John L. Lewis aptly phrased it, when the "stresses and strains" of amalgamation begin to hit home.

When the rebelling gets underway, John L. Lewis may find himself in some strange alliances. James E. Carey, CIO vice president, once was an ally of Lewis, in the CIO breakaway from the AFL in 1937, but has been anti-Lewis in recent years.

It is no certainty that Carey's union, the International Union of Electrical Workers, will emerge triumphant over the rival AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in the new setup—in which case Carey and his followers might find it advisable to team up once again with Lewis in a new labor movement.

Carey has been keeping his own counsel, awaiting developments, but Woodruff Randolph, president of the AFL International Typographical Union (the Printers), oldest trade union in the country, has been sharply critical of the merger.

Another outspoken critic has been George Q. Lynch, boss of the AFL Pattern Makers Union, founded in 1887, only a year later than the founding of the AFL. Lynch has a unique reputation with Washington reporters, who are accustomed to hearing: "You can say this, but don't quote me." The peppery Pattern Makers' boss welcomes quotation of everything he says.

LYNCH SPEAKS MIND

Lynch is not at all enthusiastic about his small union being absorbed by the CIO Auto Workers or the AFL Machinists Union, as is likely to happen after the merger. Asked by this column if he would consider teaming up with John L. Lewis, whom he has frequently criticized in the past, Lynch replied frankly: "I have always been loyal to the AFL. But if the AFL goes out of existence, as it will in December, I'll be free lance."

The Depression Has Set In

Lynch was equally frank with AFL bosses at a recent executive council meeting in Chicago. He told them: "As you know, I have never shown any love for John L. Lewis, but whether you like it or not you are driving the small unions into an association with him by this merger. I can name five or six AFL unions that would line up with Lewis today, if he got rid of his arbitrariness and capriciousness and signed that anti-Communist oath."

Note: Lewis is strongly anti-Communist, but takes the position that the oath was rammed down Labor's throat by the Taft-Hartley Act, which Lewis abhors. The miner boss also resents the idea that employers do not have to sign the oath.

Five Eldorado FFA Members Market Steers at Show

Thursday, Sept. 8, five members of the Eldorado Township high school FFA chapter participated in the annual Vocational Agriculture Market-Day Livestock Show at the National Stockyards, East St. Louis.

The Eldorado FFA chapter had five members who consigned steers to this annual show. They were Robert Bramlet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Bramlet; Donald Bramlet, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bramlet; Paul Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hines; Wilbur Mosby, son of A. B. Mosby, and J. E. Whipple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Whipple. All live in the rural community area of Eldorado.

The boys consigned 29 head of fat steers to the show, ranging from 950 to 1100 pounds each and they brought a gross total of $6,591.15. This was an average price of $227.28 per steer.

Robert Bramlet's ten head of white-faced Herefords brought the highest price in the show of $23.50, which was $2 above the top market on open classes.

The steers were graded by grading experts who are regularly employed by the various commission firms of the livestock exchange.

Of the total of 29 head, 25 were graded choice and four graded very good. For each animal grading choice the boys will receive a bonus check of $5 per head and for each animal grading very good they will receive a bonus check of $2.50 per head. This amount is not included in the total gross and the Eldorado FFA boys will receive bonus money totaling $137.50.

H. C. Bishop, adviser for the Eldorado FFA chapter, was presented with a nice plaque for the chapter's outstanding livestock exhibit of 129 head of hogs and 29 head of steers. The swine were marketed Aug. 11.

Coast Guard Clears Candidate For Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Coast Guard officer candidate whose commission had been withheld because his mother allegedly associated with subversive organizations has been cleared for security and will receive his commission Wednesday, the Coast Guard announced today.

The officer candidate is Norton Pierre Gaston, San Francisco, a 23-year-old seaman who will receive a commission as an ensign.

Gaston was graduated eighth in his officer's candidate class at New London, Conn., on April 1. But his commission was withheld because his mother, Mrs. Jeanne Grisez, was accused of participating in various organizations of the attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

French Cabinet Meets to Approve Morocco Self-Rule

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet met in emergency session today to approve self-rule for Morocco.

This was the self-imposed deadline day set by Premier Edgar Faure to solve the crisis which has caused widespread bloodshed in North Africa.

The French government was split over the Moroccan issue, and the threat of more trouble hanging menacingly over North Africa's cities.

But hope for peace rose with a report that Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat was ready to quit his throne in Rabat.

Ben Moulay Arafat was reported to have informed the Paris government that he would quit if he received a solemn promise that his rival, exiled Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef, will not be allowed to return to the throne from which he was ousted two years ago.

Adenauer, Soviets Agree in Principle To Gov't Contact

MOSCOW (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Russia's top leaders were reported today to have agreed on the principle of continuing direct contact between their governments. But they were unable to agree on the method.

Two solid hours of hard bargaining between Adenauer and the Soviet delegation headed by Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev failed to provide an answer.

A German proposal made at this morning's preliminary meeting between Foreign Ministers V. M. Molotov and Heinrich von Brentano that the present Moscow talks be continued at a lower level was turned down by the Soviets.

Earlier, Adenauer was reported to have told the Western ambassadors in Moscow that he and the Soviet leaders had agreed upon direct, continuous relations between their two countries.

The motion to file as a poor person will be presented to the court Tuesday morning. If allowed, the court clerk will immediately issue a writ of error and a supercedas order staying the date of Cucci's execution until the court has disposed of the appeal.

Chrysler Unveils Its 1956 Models

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. raised the curtain on its 1956 fleet of automobiles today, offering push-button automatic transmissions on Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto, Chrysler and Imperial lines.

The new models, called "Flight Sweep" cars, were unveiled before newsmen at Chrysler's Chelsea, Mich., proving grounds. The cars will be introduced to the public later this month.

Push-button drive selection will be a standard part of the automatic transmission on all five lines. The automatic transmissions still will be extra-cost equipment, however. It will take only a gentle touch of the finger to shift gears with the new device.

The selector is a cluster of buttons for neutral, low, drive and reverse. They are located on the instrument panel to the left of the steering wheel to keep them away from the curious hands of children.

Other new features on the 1956 cars will be high-sweep rear fenders, safety devices including security door latches, optional seat belts, faster acting brakes and improved sealed beam headlights; more powerful engines, and 12-volt electrical systems.

The Aug. 27 explosion and fire killed 2 persons, injuring 44, raged out of control for 36 hours, and damaged more than 10 million dollars worth of property.

Seven persons received minor injuries when Sunday's explosion blew the roof off the filtering building and started the fire.

VALIER, Ill. (AP)—About 400 coal miners returned to work today after a long layoff at Old Ben Coal Company's Mine 22 here.

Air Force, Weather Bureau Deny Claim To Three Mystery Balloons in Midwest

By United Press
Midwest officials were up in the air today over three mystery balloons that appeared and disappeared Sunday at high altitudes.

The silly summer season, which began several months ago when hoses were reported burrowing into the ground, drew to an equally silly end as nobody claimed any of the balloons.

One of the huge floaters hovered over the Chicago Loop at an altitude of nearly 100,000 feet for a short time and then began to drift over Lake Michigan, where it was seen no more.

FOOTBALL FORUM NO. 4:

Southwest Sees Best Balance Since '44

By ED PRICE
Head Coach, Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (NEA)—Long noted as a cut-throat league, the Southwest Conference appears headed for the fiercest football feud in its four decades of football.

Indications are that the 1955 campaign will have to go all the way back for a parallel to the war year of 1944, when only a game and a half separated the champion from the cellar club.

Certainly, there's not going to be any surprise like '54, when unheralded Arkansas sprouted over a field that was Texas were supposed to dominate.

Rarely have the schools in this sector returned such a high percentage of lettermen. Only Texas A. & M., which impresses with a class collection of sophomores, is below 50 per cent in experience. My Longhorns broke even on returnees but have four men returning from seasons previous to 1954.

Title-defending Arkansas, for instance, retains eight starters and 23 of 29 lettermen. The major change is that the Razorbacks will be running from the split-T under Jack Mitchell, who succeeded single wing partisan Bowden Wyatt.

Versatile George Walker moves in at quarterback, supported by fullback Henry Moore and heavy duty man Preston Carpenter at halfback. Center Jerry Ford heads up the line.

Texas Christian returns an even higher percentage of seasoned performers.

If you change the color of your "card" furniture during repainting, it's a good idea to apply an enamel undercoat before you begin the new color. This is especially advisable if you're switching from a dark to a light shade.

INDICTED—Army Lt. Aldo Icardi, above, was indicted by a federal grand jury in Washington, D. C., on charges of perjury. The charges grew out of his appearance before a congressional group in regard to the mysterious slaying of Major William Holohan during a secret behind-the-lines mission in Italy during World War II. Icardi, now an attorney in Pittsburgh, Pa., stated that Holohan was killed by an enemy band. (NEA Telephoto)

TESTIFIES—Mrs. Deborah Landy, mother of the honor graduate of the Merchant Marine academy who was denied a Naval Reserve commission on grounds that his mother was once a communist, is shown as she waited to testify before the House Un-American Activities subcommittee in Washington. The group sought to determine if she has any information about the communist party that might be useful. (NEA Telephoto) sommel, 21 of 26, including eight regulars. Flanked by proven players virtually everywhere, quarterback Chuck Curtis has been given the responsibility of lifting the Horned Frogs from a 1-5 record in conference play to a contending position. He could do it. Hugh Pitts is an All-America candidate at center.

Southern Methodist is in the same boat. Chalmers Woodard has 20 tested varsity men back, plus Tiny Goss, returned from service. There is concern at quarterback and end. Senior John Roach is the leading signal caller, but Ray Massena, a versatile sophomore, might come on, they tell me. Tackle Forrest Gregg and backs John Marshall, Don McIlhenny and Hal O'Brien are top men.

Baylor, long an offensive menace, was counting on Doyle Traylor for expert guidance and passing, but must find a substitute until he recovers from a preseason injury, while Rice will employ two prize soph field generals in King Hill and Frank Ryan to go with Pinky Nisbet, a senior veteran. Last year Rice had an All-American back in Dick Moegle. This year Baylor appears to have one in Del Shofner. The Owls counter for individual honors in the line with tackle Eddie Rayburn.

Talented performers from past years' winningest freshman team sparks A. and M., which has one essential ingredient. It's hungry. No Aggie has attracted many all-star lists, but remember names like John Crow, Kenneth Hall, Jack Powell and Bobby Marks.

Out of the spotlight for a change, Texas lacks seasoned depth in the middle of the line and must count heavily on inexperienced hands at the vital tackle positions. The leadership of center Johnny Tatum and guard Herbert Gray should help the rebuilding up front, while the backfield could be the most stable since 1952.

Walt Pondren, a soph quarterback of promise, joins such old hands as Charley Brewer, Delano Womack, Chet Simeik, Joe Youngblood and Ed Hawkins in spearheading a backfield that's a question mark only at fullback.

Legion Edges Uniontown, Ky., Cardinals, 10-9

Coming from far behind in the late innings, the Harrisburg Legion edged the Uniontown, Ky., Cardinals by a 10 to 9 score in a ball game played at the town park diamond Sunday afternoon.

Going into the sixth frame the locals were down 9 to 2 before they started racking up runs enough to get back in the ball game. Big Bob Dallas' tremendous homer into left field with two mates aboard in the seventh drew the locals within one run of a tie and the Legion then bounced up with two more runs in the eighth off Big Jim Bumpus to go ahead and cop their 18th in of the season against seven setbacks.

Kline started on the hill for the Cardinals and his slow tantalizing stuff kept the Legion off balance for the first six innings when the locals were able to score only twice; once via Frank Logsdon's home run into the left field weed patch in the second frame and again in the fifth when successive singles by Romonosky, Wallace and Odle produced a lone marker.

Logsdon's double and a single by Hay coupled with an enemy miscue led to two tallies in the sixth and the big inning came in the seventh when with two out Williams drew a base on balls. Aggie Miller followed with a pinch single to center to chase Williams to third from where he scored on Guley's ace. At this point Dallas banged out his homer and the locals went on in the 8th to score the tying and winning runs as Hal walked, Romonosky beat out an infield hit, Wallace's sacrifice advancing the runners a base each and Fred Williams' squeeze bunt which tallied Hay with the tying run, followed by an infield out which scored Romonosky with the winner.

Logsdon, Guley and Romonosky paced the Legion's 12 hit offense with two hits each. Bill Yeager with three solid safeties was high man for the Cardinals in leading their 11-hit attack.

Wallace went all the way for the Legion to cop his seventh win against only one loss since joining the club. Kline and Bumpus pitched for the losers with Bumpus being tagged with the loss. Romonosky for the locals and Howard for the Cardinals were the catchers.

Next Sunday the Legion will travel to Uniontown for a game with the Merchants of that city.

Eldorado Beats Grayville, 7-4

The Eldorado Merchants were host to the Grayville Lions Sunday and defeated them in a well played baseball game by the score of 7-4.

Grayville scored single tallies in each the first and second innings and scored twice in the seventh. Eldorado scored two in the first, three in the third and two in the fifth.

Thaxton, Dorris and Irvin, with two hits each, paced Eldorado at bat. Beasley, Puhlim, Montgomery, Eubanks, Gates and Williams had a hit each to round out Eldorado's 12 hit attack.

Piland was Grayville's top hitter with two safe blows. Clark, a classy left hander, was on the mound for Grayville and Piland his catcher.

Joe Irvin started on the hill for Eldorado and pitched well for six frames, allowing four runs and six hits. "Big Guy" Woolard hurled the last three frames and allowed just one hit and no runs.

Next Sunday Eldorado will be at home, entertaining Uniontown, Ky., featuring the pitching of "Big Jim" Bumpus. In a game played previously by the two teams at Uniontown, they battled to a 1-1 draw in 11 innings.

Eldorado will practice Tuesday and Friday of this week, sessions to get underway at 5 p. m.

Wild Pitch by Whitey Ford Gives Indians Split in Doubleheader with Yankees

By United Press

The wildest American league pennant race of 'em all may have been decided by the most costly wild pitch in 51 years.

Thrown by Ed (Whitey) Ford, the errant pitch enabled the Cleveland Indians to split Sunday's momentous doubleheader with the New York Yankees and put them in a position where they probably can win a second straight flag with only six victories in their remaining 11 games.

Hoot Evers scored from third base with two out in the eighth inning as the pitch skittered past catcher Yogi Berra and that was the run that gave the Indians a 3-2 triumph after bowing, 6-1, in the opener. As a result, they maintained their 1-2 game lead over the Yankees, a 3-1-2 game edge over the Chicago White Sox and a six-game bulge over the Boston Red Sox.

Yanks Need Eight Victories

Thanks to Sunday's split, the Indians can finish the campaign with a 94-60 record by winning six of their last 11 games. To tie the Tribe, the Yankees would have to win eight of their last 12, the White Sox would have to take 10 of their last 13 and the Red Sox would have to sweep all 13 of their games.

Ford carried a 2-1 lead into the eighth frame but with one out served up a home run ball to Bobby Avila that tied the score. Evers followed with a double and Al Rosen was purposely walked. Ford induced Larry Doby to hit into a force play at second base but his 1-0 pitch to Ralph Kiner was the wild one and Evers dashed over the plate.

A crowd of 65,310 saw southpaw Tommy Byrne spin a four-hitter and the Yankees rout 16-game winner Early Wynn in the opener.

Frank Sullivan became the league's first 18-game winner when he pitched the Red Sox to a 6-2 victory but the White Sox bounced back in the second game with a 7-2 triumph.

Hoelt Gets Shutout

Southpaw Billy Hoelt pitched his seventh shutout and 10th victory to give the Detroit Tigers an 8-0 victory but Ted Abernathy's four-hitter earned the Washington Senators a 1-0 win. Kansas City and Baltimore also split, the A's winning, 4-3, and the Orioles coming back for a 4-2 decision.

Johnny Klippstein missed the National League's second no-hitter of the season on Pee Wee Reese's ninth-inning single as the Cincinnati Redlegs downed the champion Brooklyn Dodgers, 9-0 and 5-3.

The Milwaukee Braves downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4 and 9-1. Eddie Mathews hitting a grand slam, ninth-inning homer in the opener and Humberto Robinson pitching a six-hitter in the nightcap. In single games, Ernie Banks and Willie Mays each hit his 43rd homer as the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Giants, 7-5, and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5, with Larry Jackson picking up his sixth win in relief.

Eagles Remain Unbeaten in Exhibition Games

By United Press

The Philadelphia Eagles were riding high and the Cleveland Browns were skidding towards a new low today as National Football League teams entered the final week of their pre-season head-knocking.

The Eagles remained unbeaten in five exhibition skirmishes Sunday by edging the Pittsburgh Steelers, 24-20. The world champion Browns, meanwhile, suffered a 19-3 beating at the hands of the Detroit Lions Saturday night.

It was the third straight setback for Paul Brown's titleholders. They have won only one exhibition game (over Baltimore) thus far this season, while dropping decisions to the College All-Stars, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Detroit.

In other Saturday night games, Baltimore posted an impressive 24-14 victory over the Chicago Cardinals; Bob Watkins' second period touchdown gave the Chicago Bears a 7-0 triumph over the New York Giants, and the Washington Redskins edged the Green Bay Packers, 33-31.

The Browns close out their exhibition schedule Thursday night at Chicago against the Bears. In Saturday night games, the Eagles will play Los Angeles at Denver, Colo., while the Cardinals meet Green Bay at Milwaukee.

The Lions entertain the Giants at Detroit and the Colts tackle the Steelers at Buffalo, N. Y., next Sunday.

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

Illustrated by MHA, Copyright 1954, 1955 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Random House.

XX

Ike Clanton, the self-elected loudmouth of the bunch, got his feet under him first.

"Well, talk don't grade no higher here than it does anywhere," he challenged the Earps. "Yonder's the door."

"So I see," acknowledged Wyatt. "But my point is yet to be made. It's one I wouldn't dare make in public, for legal reasons, but I'm going to give it to you boys for what it's worth." He paused, sweeping them with his empty stare. "From the minute I leave this room, I mean to hunt down and kill any man that resists arrest—no matter what charge he's wanted on."

Frank Stilwell moved forward. "Wait a minute," he called to Wyatt. "I smell more to this than getting your brother appointed town marshal. By itself, that don't cut enough grease to clean the skillet. John Behan is still sheriff. No city policeman is going to put much of a dent in his badge. Where's your kicker in all this, Wyatt?"

Wyatt had already started for the door, the silent Virgil dogging after him. He snapped his fingers and shook his head in a mile-wide, put-on way. "Sorry, Frank. Meant to make that point without being asked. Right proud to oblige."

He fished in his pocket, careless as though he was digging for a quarter to pay for his beer. His big fist came out closed around something small and shiny. But it wasn't any quarter. At least if it was, it was the first two-bit piece with a snap-pin on the back. It was a deputy United States marshal's badge.

The Pima County machine was too much for the short limits the U. S. put on its badge-toters. Time and again Wyatt would make his arrests. Time and again Behan would hold them a few hours to make it look good, then turn them loose for "lack of evidence." Even when that evidence was to be had, pat and cold, there was no beating Behan and Charley Shibell and their Prescott crowd. Inside those first six months no less than five men, brought in by Wyatt on charges either of murder or manslaughter, or accessory, "broke jail" and made it away. In each case Behan had some smooth story to make it read reasonable in the Epitaph and Nugget reports next day. It appeared to make small difference that in each report, somewhere along the line, the same string of words—"an accomplice with a saddle horse was waiting in the alley behind the jail"—kept cropping up.

The unfair fact was that Wyatt stuck to his law and let Behan do the politicking. The bad accessory after the fact was that Wyatt's law was the federal law, and unless that law was crossed, which in most cases meant that the U. S. mails or money shipments had to be messed with, he couldn't even get an indictment through his own office, let alone Behan's.

This simply meant that the cushy-fat rustling trade could carry on as usual under Behan's protection.

The Prescott crowd got busy and surveyed a line right square down the middle of old Pima County, lopped off the east half of it, along with Tombstone, naturally, and slapped a new brand on it—Cochise County. Charley Shibell, for faithful services rendered, got to hand-pick the new county's sheriff. From about four months after Wyatt took over as Deputy U. S. Marshal he had to face up to the nasty fact that Johnny Behan was full Sheriff of Cochise County.

Right off, Virgil and his six rules put a lid on Tombstone the like of which the town had never winced to. By the time two of the rough-string boys had been shot dead on Allen Street for resisting arrest, the gang knew the Earps had to go.

They got Virgil, quick enough. Behan simply got him thrown out as town marshal and a good friend of the gang's put in his place.

But Wyatt was awake. He pulled open his desk drawer, hung a U. S. deputy's badge on his brother, and kept right on cracking down with all six rules.

All this was so much see-sawing, though. Both Wyatt and Behan knew it. And knew what the real stake was. And who held the hole-card on it.

The stake was the stage hold-ups, not the rustling.

For six solid months he kept the road agents quiet. He did it by so simple a trick it near drove the outlaw boys to look for honest work. He just saw to it that every last mine shipment or payroll carried U. S. mail along with it. Even if, as happened more than once, he had to write his own letters.

Filing blunt insult atop sharp trick, he got Wells Fargo to put Bob Paul on, to ride shotgun for those shipments. To begin with, Bob was a sure man with a scattergun. But aside from that he was a man about as down on Johnny Behan as you could get.

He'd run for Cochise County sheriff against Behan, beat him sound and square. But Behan had rigged a crooked ballot count in the outlying towns and come off the dirty winner.

It narrowed down to one thing. The mine shipments had all along been the gang's gravy, the real easy money. When Wyatt cut them off, it meant war.

Some shortly, Curly Bill had his restless bellyful. He put out the word for the boys to drift along over to the Sulphur Springs spread. There was going to be a little bunkhouse lecture. Its subject: "The Preparation and Feeding of Pure Lead to Deputy U. S. Marshals."

Amvets Hit Civil Defense Program

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Amvets' 11th annual national convention closed here Sunday with a blistering attack on the administration's "bluff poker" civil defense program and a condemnation of the first session of the 84th Congress.

A resolution denied that the government has any "actual or effective civil defense" and warned that "our American cities and the civilian population slumber at the pagan whim of the Communist enemy and his hydrogen bombs."

The resolution said present civil defense policies would "write off as expendable of upwards of 50 million lives and hence the public must be alerted to the crisis."

"We believe that the administration at Washington is playing a game of bluff poker, with our nation and lives upon the table as the stakes," the Amvets said.

The convention declined to authorize the Amvets' annual congressional award, with the criticism that "no member of Congress has contributed in a manner which would merit this high award."

Rudolph G. Pesata, Berwyn, Ill., became new national commander of the Amvets after a close election that required a second ballot.
